NEWS-LETTER FROM STATE DEPARTMENTS

PAUL YODER, Lieut. Governor

All I know is what I read in my mail.

"It is hoped there will not be any long dead-end in the coming special session." So says my correspondent and I fully agree. BUT—there are two kinds of politics in Ohio today. First, the better that good government is good politics. We are all looking forward to that. Second, a process of leading you to believe that someone is doing something for you when they are not. We have had too much of that. Apparently some folks would like for us to have more of the latter to feed upon during the coming special session.

It has been rumored that the session will be far to be one of Davey vs. Sawyer. It won't—Sawyer is not a candidate for anything—OR Pickrel vs. Yoder. It won't—Yoder is not a candidate for anything—OR Administration vs. Hatch Men. Maybe. If the administration indulges in playing both ends against the middle, the Hatch Men will undoubtedly call the turn and continue to go on the theory that good government is the best politics. Wouldn't you? I have not asked them, but I have every confidence in them and their new recruits.

I hear rumblings of deals, programs and strategy to be used. I hear, "If you go along you might not have any opposition in the next primary." How interesting that would be and beside this is free country. I am not a part of any deal or pre-session arrangement. If others have forgotten, I have not forgotten that neither they nor I are the Legislature. The elected representatives of the people have not yet met. They have not seen all of the existing proposals. They have not had an opportunity to propose their own ideas. They should come unbiased and open minded. I can not speak for the legislature or any part of it. I won't try to. I don't want to start down people's necks and won't start now.

A party has been going on in many state departments, claiming not to be a party. They are not. They are employees who have been purged out, on a pre-Christmas vacation without pay, are expected to come to Columbus with this very sad story, and it is sad, and lobby for bigger and better appropriations so that they may be reinstated in their jobs. Cannon fodder I call it. It costs money to go to Columbus and how do they know they will get their jobs back even if—and a remote if—they do get additional appropriations. They can't know.

Some of these same departments have had more money for personal services this year than ever before. They knew what they had months ago. Why did they not budget it by months or give it a George White treatment and reduce everybody a little bit and throw on one out in the cold? I don't know why but I do know that such treatment would not necessitate bigger and better appropriations and would not automatically create an employee lobby for that purpose.

In this the business administration we hear so much about and that some business organizations seem so anxious to continue. Right is right and wrong is wrong. Political deals and maneuvers won't make wrong right.

Grange Favors

New Amendment

On Child Labor

HARRISBURG, Pa.—The National Grange convention adopted a resolution advocating submission of a new child labor amendment to the constitution.

The Grange resolution would provide that Congress have the right to limit and prohibit employment of children for hire in industry manufacturing merchandise going into interstate commerce until they reach the age of 18.

Pointing out the previous amendment submitted by Congress in 1924 had failed so far to get approval from the required number of States, the resolution said this was because parents revolted against the idea of classifying boys and girls up to 18 years as children.

Opposition to crop production control took its place in the national grange's declared policies today, but with the reservation that cotton and tobacco may be possible exceptions.

Delegates from the southland, where farmers produced so much cotton this year they hardly know what to do with it, forced the possible exceptions to be included in resolutions adopted at final sessions yesterday of the organization's 71st annual convention.

Otherwise, opposition was expressed to any program based upon economic scarcity, on the grounds that a curtailment program or destruction of large quantities of food products eventually would prove detrimental to the people.

Satisfactory solution of the problem now facing American agriculture, the resolution said, lies in bringing about better distribution systems and increased purchasing power for citizens.

Marketing agreements, as a means of control after production, provided at least 65 per cent of the producers in volume and number approve the program, was suggested as a way to handle surpluses. Support was pledged for cooperative marketing associations which are farmer-owned and farmer-controlled.

Throughout its discussion, the Grange insisted the family-sized farm be given every possible consideration, and emphasized that in all marketing agreements, maximum benefits and basic exemptions should be accorded that group.

Reasonable loans to producers, based on warehouse receipts or other collateral, making it possible for farmers to dump crops on the market—thereby frequently lowering prices materially—were favored.

Importation of commodities which can be produced economically in this country should be reduced to a minimum, the resolution said, and the American market should be maintained for the American farmer before a curtailment of crops is undertaken.

Grades to Give Christmas Program

A Christmas program will be given by the grade children in the school auditorium on Tuesday afternoon, December 21, at 2 o'clock. The parents and all others interested in the schools are cordially invited to come and enjoy the program with us. The high school students will also be the guests of the grades at this time.

This program will not be an elaborate entertainment and there will be no admission charge, but it is hoped that it will be a program enjoyable to all.

It had at first been thought possible to have a night program but owing to the fact that it is often inconvenient for parents to bring their children back to school after night, especially if the weather is inclement, it has been decided to have the afternoon program instead.

Although we realize Christmas week is a very busy time for everyone, we hope all will find time to attend the program and encourage the children by your presence. After all, Christmas comes but once a year.

5000-Acre Ohio Farm

Produce Huge Crops

Records of corn and soybean harvests on the 5000-acre Orleton farms north of London read like reports from the mammoth ranches of the West.

With the corn picking operations practically completed, estimates place the corn harvest total approximately 85,000 bushels from 1400 acres. A total of 23,500 bushels of soybeans was harvested this fall from 1044 acres. Several thousand head of hogs and cattle are fed on the farm for market each year.

The Orleton farms are owned by heirs of the late Col. William Cooper, brother of Cincinnati, and William Denstey, formerly of this locality, is in charge of farm operations.

JOHN T. BROWN

SOUNDS WARNING

TO ALL FARMERS

John T. Brown, Master Farmer, head of Farm Management Inc., and one of the leading farm authorities in the Central states has the following to say in the "Springfield Sun" relative to the proposed farm relief act now before congress:

"Getting farm commodity prices and farm production act by federal legislation may not in the long run be beneficial to farmers. While farm groups temporarily are organized sufficiently to exert a powerful influence on proposed legislation, farm leaders should realize that farm population is after all a minority group.

"Recognition of this fact should cause farm leaders to hesitate before infringing the whole matter of crop production and crop prices to government control. So long as farm groups are united and in accord on fundamental measures and urban consumers are not united it is probable that government legislation will respond to farm needs. But if urban consumers once feel the necessity of organizing in self-defense a situation might evolve that would be exceedingly detrimental to the farmer.

"This would be particularly disastrous in event that crop control of compulsory nature has become established by practice and has been held constitutional by the Supreme Court. For, if it is constitutional to regulate and regiment farmers for what is considered their own good, the principle has been established that they can be regulated and regimented for what may be considered the nation's good.

"Such an interpretation can work to the farmers' detriment at some future time. Particularly in view of the rapid increases in urban population in comparison to rural population. Farmers should sense the danger of surrendering their right to freedom of action."

For Congress Again

L. T. Marshall, Xenia, announces his candidacy for Congress at the coming Republican primary in the following:

"Immediately following the Roosevelt landslide last November, in which the entire Republican state ticket went down to defeat, I announced through the newspapers that I would be a candidate for Congress in 1938.

"When I first became a candidate for Congress, I had a certain amount of support from Mr. D. C. Pemberton and his political friends. It later transpired that in return for this support, they expected me to follow out any political program which they saw fit to initiate. This I was unwilling to do, because certain things were not to the best interests of the Republican party.

"I wish to make absolutely clear the fact that I am not the candidate of any group of selfish political bosses, but if nominated and elected will give my every effort for the benefit of all the people of this district.

"May I take this opportunity, also, to thank you for your friendship and loyalty in the past, with the hope that you will grant me your further support?"

Christmas Seals

Thousands of men and women in Ohio will open their mail on the morning of Nov. 27 and find one or more sheets of Christmas Health Seals. For thirty years the little stickers have financed the fight against tuberculosis in Ohio under the direction of the Ohio Public Health Association, Columbus, and its affiliated anti-tuberculosis and health groups located in every county of the state and in some of the cities.

It is estimated that more than 750,000 letters containing the Seals will be sent to residents of the state soliciting cooperation in the battle that is being waged against tuberculosis. In addition, Christmas Health Seals will be sold at public booths and through personal solicitation. Every person in the state will be given an opportunity to help.

The Christmas Health Seal this year depicts a polly and colorful Town Crier, barbed in his warm caped coat of blue and three-cornered hat, he brings to mind one of the most popular and ancient characters in many lands—the man who went from house to house warning of danger, telling the news and protecting the household.

The seal was designed by A. Robert Nelson, well known artist of New York, who has linked it with Alexander Woolcott, the Town Crier of the radio, who has donated a radio talk on the Christmas Seal Sale, recordings of which will be heard throughout the land between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Like the Town Crier of old, the 1937 Christmas Seal warns of danger—the danger of tuberculosis.

General Smedley Butler says: "If that will be free to all entitled we don't control liquor the nation is 'Wheels Across Africa,' and 'An finished.' And the only way to gain control is to stamp it out entirely.

Milk money... is HOME TOWN money

Steady circulation of milk money means steady business in a dairy community.

Milk money flows back into the community to the dairy farms and to the men at the milk plant. It then circulates to the local storekeepers, the doctor, the dentist, and other home town people. It helps support schools, libraries, churches, hospitals, fire and police departments, and other home institutions.

It is Borden's job and Borden's privilege to contribute to this steady circulation of milk money by building new markets and bigger markets for milk and its products.

THE TOPIC FOR TODAY IS

NEW CORN

The good days of dollar corn are gone, but with yields per acre twice as great as last year and a good part of the new corn made up of water which will dry out later and not count for extra weight, the present price will bring in as many dollars per acre. Our grain drier has been operating day and night for some two weeks. We are prepared to take in new corn in any quantity.

FLOCK OWNERS—Be careful in feeding new corn to laying flocks whether hen or pullets—it might easily upset them right in the present good egg season—use kiln, dried corn either cracked or ground in mash feed and take no chances. WAYNE Supplement and K. D. Corn

Burns and Allen To the Rescue

Seniors Allen and George Burns, that laugh-minute team of screen and radio fame who have made the world not conscious, have the roles of Fred Astaire's super-sonny press agents, who always land him on the front page and in the headlines, in the F. G. Wollstone's romance-with-music, "Damsel in Distress," starring dancing Fred and opening at the Regent theater in Springfield, Thursday, November 25.

The story of "A Damsel in Distress" presents Astaire as a American hoodler on tour, who is, it one is to believe his press agents, a row with the women. Joan Fontaine, who is Olivia de Seville's little and blonde sister, is Fred's leading lady. Miss Fontaine has the leading role of a young girl who is being held a virtual prisoner in her home, a 300 hundred year old castle, until she decides whom to marry out of her batch of stuffed shirt suitors. She escapes, however, meets Fred and the fun is on.
The musical score introduces the songs: "I Can't Be Bothered Now," "Topsy Turvy," "Things Are Looking Up" and "Nice Work if You Can Get It." The nimble Fred offers live snappy dance routines.

Chicago Stock Show

Will Open This Week

America's biggest farm congress,
the International Live Stock Exposition and Horse Show, will open in Chicago, Saturday morning in the International Amphitheatre.

The exposition will be in program for eight days, from November 27 to December 4. It will be the 38th anniversary of this largest annual showing of live stock and farm products.
Purchased beef cattle breeders from 25 states and three Canadian provinces will exhibit a total of 1346 animals. Shorthorn and Aberdeen-angus herds will be sent from 19 states and Canada, and Herefords will be here from 12 states. They will be coming from such distances as Texas and Alberta, the state of Washington and New York.

Sheep breeders from 16 states and Canada, representing a territory from Ontario to Oklahoma and Massachusetts to Montana will send exhibition flocks for the competitions of eleven different breeds.
Farm youths from 12 states will compete on the opening day in a junior live stock feeding contest. They most of which have been prize winners at State and County Fairs.

A total of 465 draft horses, representing five breeds, will be exhibited by breeders in 13 states, Alberta, Ontario, and Quebec; and swine herds have been listed by stockmen in ten states.

Farmers from 35 states and six provinces of Canada have made entries for the 19th International Grain and Hay Show, which will be held coincident with the live stock exposition.
Most spectacular awards are the corn and wheat championships. The winners will be crowned "Corn King" and
"Wheat King" of the year.

Livestock feeders in 15 states, Ontario and Saskatchewan, will exhibit over 300 carloads of cattle, sheep,
